

ALLWEILER experts available as speakers

ALLWEILER experts can do more than just analyze and optimize installations. They are also highly sought-after speakers for public or internal conventions and other technically-oriented events. Examples of such events include foreman training in wastewater engineering and seminars on the use of pumps in paper production, chemical manufacturing, and in heat-transfer systems. ALLWEILER experts are also good choices for events that discuss service and maintenance programs or stocking of spare parts. Contact Director of Sales Stefan Wilken, s.wilken@allweiler.de for more information. ■
